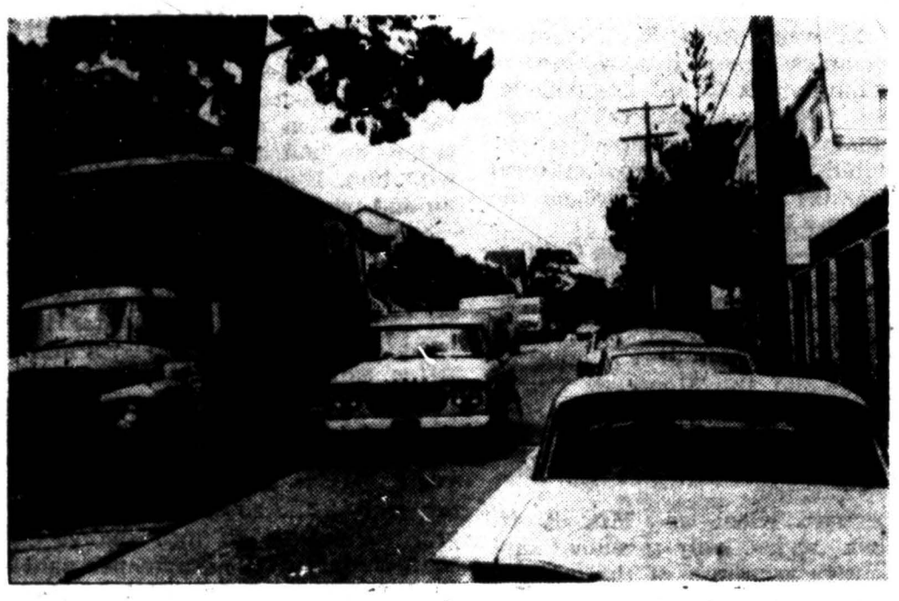
Are One-Way Streets A Solution?



By Allman Cook

As we drive our automobiles on Carmel's business district streets these days we are faced with chaotic traffic conditions. Many things contribute to this but the double parking of trucks certainly stands out as a major menace to the smooth flow of traffic.

Howard Bucquet suggests a solution to the problem. He states that commercial vehicles should only be allowed to stop on our streets for deliveries until 10:00 a.m. in the morning. This is not a new idea but he supplements it with an original thought. Mr. Bucquet suggests that a central delivery area be established for trucks arriving after 10:00 a.m. and that the merchants could then pick up the shipments at convenient times.

These suggestions of Mr. Bucquet have not been popular with the local store operators we have interviewed. On the other hand no concrete improvements have been forthcoming either.

May 25, 1960, under the pressure of a petition and considerable verbal protest, the city council voted no on a mall for Ocean Avenue, parking and one-way streets portion of a central district plan. Now it appears that one-way traffic on Carmel's north and south bound business area streets would be an excellent step towards improving traffic flow.

The above is a picture recently taken on Dolores Street, south of Ocean. You can see three double parked trucks forcing moving traffic into a single lane. Obviously that single lane traffic can only move in one direction at a time. In one direction it is necessary to drive on the wrong side of the street where the driver is without any legal rights should an accident occur. Naturally, this causes a feeling of insecurity for the driver, it results in traffic jams and associating unpleasant thoughts to negotiating our business streets. As a matter of fact many drivers have responded to this difficulty by doing their shopping in outlying shopping areas

A great deal of order can be restored to traffic conditions through the use of one-way streets. This has been proven in communities throughout our country.

Your Pine Cone recommends one-way streets on Mission, San Carlos, Dolores, Lincoln and Monte Verde between Fourth and Ninth.

Do you have any suggestions?

Council Calls For Loan Bids On Civic Center

With Councilmen Gunnar Norberg and William Sefton casting negative votes, the city council last night passed a resolution calling for bids on a $300,000 tax interim loan to replace reserve funds which will be used during the 1966-67 year to finance construction costs of the new police station, corporation yard and public works facility now being built on city-owned land at Fourth and Junipero.

The tax interim loan procedure was approved by a 3-2 vote of the council on May 4. The borrowed

Council Approves Costs Of Culture

Alerted that budgets of the Sunset Commission and arts commission would be studied by the city council last night, interested persons filled the council chambers and remained until a unanimous motion was passed establishing a city theatre/stage management category of employment and budgeting of $5,200 to pay for this service established on the basis of an hourly rate.

Public interest was maintained also until the council allocated $2,000 for a "fund to help the Sunset Commission make up its mind to help us (city council) make up our minds about Sunset Center," as Councilman Eben Whittlesey phrased it.

Both items fell within what Mayor Stephen Grant termed "the costs of culture." All so-called requests, at present in the budget, will amount to 8.4 cents of any proposed 1966-67 tax rate, he pointed out.

The $2,000 will be used according to a proposal of Mayor Stephen Grant that the commission seek local "expertise" to aid them in planning future development of the city's municipal cultural and community center, then employ a consultant to aid them in framing recommendations to the council.

Such procedure will prevent "a blue chip commission" asking an outsider to tell it what is economically feasible; where support for any future development may be obtained without being "a devastating drag on the tax base," and what the people of Carmel find desirable, Councilman Herbert Blanks declared.

Councilman Eben Whittlesey pointed out the desirability of the Sunset Commission analyzing what either communities have done in regard to developments similar to Sunset Center. Such study would help the city council decide "what we want at Sunset," he said.

Mayor Stephen Grant likened the Sunset Commission's job to asking the people of Carmel "how to hold a moonbeam in our hands." Employment of an outsider would, in effect be "an escape route" he insisted. The reactions of Carmelites would be to ask "Who is he?" He favored "our idea" planning for Sunset Center and allocation of $2,000 for the Sunset Commission to use for professional aid in framing ideas developed within the community.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg al-

WATCH TELEPHONE BOOKS PRINTED

Hugh Bayless, right, city administrator of Carmel, joined by L. C. Jefferies, left, and Don Ostergard, Pacific Telephone district manager in Monterey, visited PT&T's San Francisco printing facilities where this year's Monterey phonebook was printed. They watched as individual lines of type were set by the printer. The books were delivered here July 22.

Real Need For Fire Prevention Work In City

"A little too big for our breeches," commented Councilman Herbert Blanks last night about a proposal to combine the duties of city fire marshal with those of a paid engineer of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department. He deplored "the tendency to get a little grandiose in our thinking" and proposed revision of the municipal code to provide other means of providing a fire prevention and education program for the city than appointment of a "chief of the fire prevention bureau."

Instead of a "chief," he said he would "like to see one engineer given the responsibility of fire prevention," this person to possess and acquire additional skills to warrant additional pay. He maintained, too, that the fire prevention bureau establishment presently included in the city laws represented values of 1932 and 1941 rather than of today.

Councilman Eben Whittlesey, as fire commissioner, stressed the real need within the city for an effective fire prevention program on a professional basis. This work, he contended, should be undertaken by a fireman familiar with the structural fire hazards of the city.

Free Forest Theater Concert To Present Dancer, Pianist And Trio

On Sunday at 2 p.m., the Beyer String Trio will return to the Forest Theater, for the second free concert under the co-sponsorship of the Carmel Arts Commission and the American Federation of Musicians, Local 616. The trio, consisting of Helen Beyer, violinist; Elaine Beyer, cellist; and Erwin Gordon, violist, will have as guest artists Angene Feves and W. Frederick Schaad.

Miss Feves, director of the Richmond Ballet Company and associate director of the Oakland Ballet Company, has appeared with the ballet of Teatro La Fenice in Venice. She was guest ballerina at Rome Chamber Opera Ballet and at the Ballette della Farnesina. In the United States, she has toured with Gene Marinaccio's American Concert Ballet and the Rod Strong Quartette, under the auspices of Civic Music Associations. Both in the United States and in Europe, she has danced in musical shows, as well as on television and in the movies. Locally, she performed the role of Alice in the Geddis, and Martin Company production of "Alice in Wonderland" at the Tantamount Theatre in Carmel Valley.

Mr. Schaad was born in New York and holds a master of science degree in music education from New York State University. He studied piano with Warren Case at Community Music School in Buffalo, New York, and studied music and composition with Aurelio Gioni, pianist for the Elshuca Trio, also with Lawrence Schauffler, dean of music at Fredonia State College in New York. Mr. Schaad taught music in the New York schools until he retired to Carmel in 1963.

The program on Sunday afternoon will include: Divertimento No. 109 in C Major, Haydn; The Trio for Strings, Beethoven; and Quartet No. 1 in C Minor, Mendelssohn.

This year the summer Sunday programs celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the incorporation of Carmel as a city.

Musical Comedy Opens Tonight At White Oaks Theatre In Valley

An unusual musical comedy, "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off" opens tonight at 8:30 o'clock at White Oaks Theatre in Carmel Valley. The show, an interpretation of "Everyman" with songs such as "What Kind of Fool Am I?" and "Once in a Lifetime," will run four weekends, Thursday through Sunday evenings, until September 4.

Under the direction of Gale Peterson, company members led by John O'Connell (Littlechap) and Mary Pattie (Evie) have worked out the choreographic, comedic, and dramatic elements of the script. Ray Warren, assistant to musical director Chris Nance, has conducted principals and chorus in the musical score which follows Littlechap's encounters with rebellious youth, marriage, unfaithfulness, reckless ambition, fatherhood, old age, and death.

Scenic and lighting designer Jack Simon has worked with Peterson to incorporate a stylized theatrical setting unlike the circus arena scene usually associated with the show. Also, the popular look of "mod" fashion has been emphasized in Corliss Nickerson's costume designs which depart from the harlequin style synonymous with other "Stop the World" stage productions.

Members of the White Oaks Training Centre taking part in the production are Karin Gjording and Linda Poser as Littlechap's daughters, George Gray as his son, and chorus members Linda Boblitt, Peggy Howett, Karla Heinz, Sandra Lundwall, and Katie Russell.

Because of the adult theme of the show, persons under 18 years of age will not be admitted unless accompanied by an adult.

ASILOMAR TOPIC FOR HIGH TWELVE

Mrs. Roma Philbrook, Asilomar director, will be guest speaker at the Monday luncheon meeting of the Carmel High Twelve Club and will have as her subject. "The Asilomar Conference Grounds—Past and Present." Since Asilomar brings millions of dollars to this area each year and many do not know much about how it is operated, who owns it, etc., members are urged to hear about an interesting subject and to ask questions.

Members are also reminded of the club's annual picnic which will be held Sunday at the water filter plant in upper Carmel Valley.

State Undertakes Cultural Center Feasibility Study

Last week Andy R. Trivedi of Economics Research Associates of Washington D. C. and Los Angeles spent two days undertaking preliminary study for a report on the feasibility of developing a cultural center complex somewhere on the Monterey Peninsula.

He was sent here by the California Arts Commission following a request to this body from Cultural Arts of the Monterey Peninsula (Arts Inc.), Monterey Peninsula College and the Monterey Peninsula Branch of the American Federation of Arts, all members of the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County.

Leonard Klene and Mrs. E. H. Melvin, respectively president and executive secretary of the council, also Kenneth Ehrman council representative for CAMP, conducted Mr. Trivedi to the various sites on the Peninsula proposed for a cultural center, also aided him in evaluating the current activities and needs of cultural groups in this area.

Elsa Not Only Lion To Remember Human

Louise Cook passes on to Pine Cone readers an interesting conversation she had with S. F. B. Morse.

"In discussing the movie "Born Free," with Mr. Morse, which we had both seen last week, he told me about a friend of his, the Duke of Manchester, who has a ranch that is adjacent to the large game preserve in Africa where the Adamsons lived and had their lioness, Elsa, as a pet.

"The Duke of Manchester was a very good friend of the Adamsons and visited them frequently. On one occasion he took a nap in the afternoon and it wasn't long before he had company in his bed with him. It was Elsa. She curled up and went to sleep there.

"This gentleman was also a naval officer during World War II and had a lion pet of his own. He was so attached to this lion that he even had it on board ship with him. After some time, it was necessary to put this pet lion in a zoo, and he wasn't able to see the lion for—I guess it was a period of two years. But at the end of that time he went to the zoo to visit his lion and wanted to go into the cage with him. But the zookeeper said that it was just out of the question — that after this period of time the lion would have reverted to its native state and would be very unfriendly and wouldn't even recognize the man who had been his former master. But this gentleman insisted and finally they allowed him to go into the cage.

"The lion was gnawing on a bone. The duke went up to the lion, picked up the bone and tapped him on the nose with it, also called the lion by name. The lion stood up and put his paws on the Duke of Manchester's shoulders and he licked his face. He hadn't forgotten his master for a minute."

Carmel Lions Club Has Tacos Booth At Fair For Tenth Year

In 1956 the Carmel Lions Club was in need of a fund raising project for activities which they felt were needed to make Carmel a better place in which to live. A booth at the Monterey County Fair was decided upon and tacos were the product. So, under the tutelage of the Su Vecino Restaurant staff, many of the Lions became adept at putting tacos together. For years the Su Vecino staff prepared the meat and sauce but of late years the services of the Quality Market have been utilized.

In the beginning the booth needed cooking and storage facilities and Hicks Plumbing gladly donated these. Counters were built and new flooring laid by local Lions. Fort Ord also contributed by loaning needed containers and cooking vessels. Decorations over the years have been done by local artists.

A cause for celebration this year is that the booth has been refurbished with the assistance of the Aztech Industries, Inc., of Seaside. The old stove burned itself out—a new one replaces it. The new ice box is of the walk-in type allowing plenty of room for storage. A new area for preparing ingredients has been added; new counters replace the old and new flooring material makes it easier on the feet. Decorations are new and pleasing, depicting the Lion's head with the sombrero.

Come to the Fair and enjoy a taco as only the Carmel Lions can make them. Over the years the Lions have earned thousands of dollars through this project and in this way have been able to contribute substantially to youth activities, locally and nationwide.

HIGHLANDS MAN ACQUITTED IN SECOND TRIAL

With Superior Court Judge Anthony Brazil presiding, Thomas Reed Balentine, 56, was acquitted August 2 by a superior court jury of assault with a deadly weapon. The defendant was accused of the shotgun wounding of Ronald Bucher, now 19, a former Carmel High School athlete, near Balentine's Carmel Highlands home on February 12. An earlier trial, presided over by Superior Court Judge Gordon Campbell, ended with a hung jury.

The Bucher youth, shot while he and some companions attempted to push his car out of a ditch, allegedly has limited use of his right arm as a result of wounds sustained.

Why Are You Here Tonight?

It's only natural for a fourth-generation Carmelite to have the beach as his favorite place. Accordingly on Tuesday, Peter Lloyd chose to celebrate his third birthday with supper on Reamer's Beach, also to thoroughly enjoy the event as did, also, his sisters, Lesley and Jennefer, despite seasonable fog and unseasonable gusts of south wind. But Peter's parents, Sue and Skip Lloyd, also his grandparents, Marjory and Frank Lloyd, tended to huddle, shivering, about the picnic fire and were not at all surprised when a seal surfaced beyond the surf and surveyed the only humans on the beach with astonishment—twice.

Visalia Was A Surprise

Louis Conlan deserted his new Partington Ridge retreat to spend last weekend near Visalia at the Cutler "ranch" of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Clark. Louis found the ranch, as well as the surrounding area, a delightful one and reports Visalia abounds in odd shops jammed with inexpensive antiques (of doubtful vintage but fun for fixing up).

While there, he drove into the foothills to Three Rivers, site of Disney's proposed multi-million dollar recreation center.

"Jim" Hyndman will serve as his brother's best man.

EDINN Certificates Awarded

Four Carmel High School students were among area participants who received certificates at the conclusion of a four-week demonstration in learning which was held at Monterey High School and sponsored as an educational innovation by Project EDINN. They were Tina Benedict, Lindsay Broberg, Ronald Harrison and Karen Van Bibber.

The program demonstrated a team approach to teaching humanities subject matter. During the preceding four weeks, the teachers and students had explored the interrelation of art, music, drama, ballet, history, literature and philosophy, concentrating on the Baroque Period from 1600-1750. In the final week of the course, students attended the Bach festival. The project also made extensive use of community resources.

RENEE BLASIUS IS MARRIED

Arrangements of pink and white gladiola and carnations adorned the altar of Carmel Mission Basilica for the wedding of Renee Janet Blasius to Lynn William Smith on the afternoon of July 30. Father George Duff of Chicago, the bride's cousin, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Renee was given in marriage by her father, Major Frank M. Blasius (USA ret). Her full-length Empire gown was of organza and Chantilly lace, its bodice fashioned with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. A removable sleeveless coat, with cascading motifs of Chantilly, descended to a chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of English illusion was held by a headpiece of pleated organza and lace trimmed with tiny seed pearls and she carried a cascade of white rosebuds and stephanotis with a white orchid later pinned to her traveling outfit.

Mrs. Dennis Blasius of Pacific Grove was her sister-in-law's matron of honor and the other attendants were Becky Johnston of San Jose, Kathi Luchelli of San Juan Bautista and Mrs. Andrew Andreas of Seaside. Empire in style, their gowns were of cherry pink georgette over taffeta, with graceful panels flowing from the high back waistline. They wore matching bows with veils on their hair and carried nosegays of pink carnations and rosebuds with long streamers.

Larry Rude of Hayward served as best man and the ushers were the bride's brother, Dennis Blasius, and the bridegroom's cousins, Lee Haskin and Kenneth Smith of Watsonville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Blasius chose a day-length frock of cherry pink chiffon, with which she wore matching accessories and a corsage of white butterfly orchids.

Mrs. Wilbert Smith, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a costume of green crepe with matching accessories. White orchids were also her choice of flowers.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception held in La Novia Room of the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School.

Among numerous relatives and friends who traveled here to attend the couple's marriage were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Blasius of Las Vegas, Nevada, Mrs. George Jones of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. George Mohler of Hacienda Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Williams of Covina, Major Charles Lowe (USA ret) and Mrs. Lowe of Santa Barbara, Mrs. John Seiter of Pasadena, Lieutenant Colonel John Johnston (USA ret) and Mrs. Johnston of San Jose, Mrs. Robert Pearce of Pacific Palisades. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Howes and Mrs. Victor Haskins came with others of the bridegroom's family from Watsonville.

After a wedding trip in Palm Springs, the young couple are at home in Monterey, where they will continue their education at Monterey Peninsula College.

The bride, a graduate of Carmel High School, is a dental assistant major at MPC. She is the sister of Dennis Blasius of Pacific Grove and the half-sister of Donald Blasius of Las Vegas and Jay Blasius of Downey. Mrs. Archie C. Hall of Carmel is her grandmother.

Her new husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Smith of Carmel Valley, is also a Carmel High School graduate. Earlier this year, he completed his tour of duty with the Sea-Bees (U. S. Naval Mobile Construction Batallion) in Viet Nam. Lynn is the brother of Mrs. Victor Haskins and Mrs. Stanley Howes of Watsonville and Mrs. Emmett McPherson of Santa Clara.

Pioneer Art Colony

Dorothy (Viola) Russ McBride, an amateur painter who has maintained a second home in Carmel for many years and was a student of the late Armin Hansen, is now pioneering an art colony in the charming Victorian village of Ferndale in Humboldt County 20 miles south of Eureka where her family settled in the last century. She wants a potter, some painters and weavers to join a working sculptor, Hobart Brown, and "some part-time palette and brush types," also two authors-in-residence, Bob and Jan Young, in the venture.

"Conditions here are ideal for art. The community welcomes artists, rents are cheap, and the atmosphere is creative," Mrs. McBride says. Other inducements are an art festival each May and an antique show every Fall. Shop windows, at these times, display art works and pots of flowers line the sidewalks.

Mrs. McBride owns several century-old false front buildings in Ferndale's one-street business district. She and other Ferndalers are redecorating and fixing up this sector, hoping to attract serious artists.

The Youngs, who took over Ferndale's old phone building this summer, are helping Mrs. McBride search for artists. Instead of factory smoke stacks, the three art colony pioneers want artists. They recognize the role of art in today's economy and envision Ferndale as another Mendocino, the old redwood lumber port which has won nationwide renown as an art colony in recent years . . . or maybe a second Carmel.

Colonized after the Gold Rush by Danish dairymen, Ferndale with its sparkling pastel-and-white buildings has a Hans Christian Anderson look, the Redwood Empire Association stresses in support of Mrs. McBride's appeal for artists and craftsmen.

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History now has available entry forms for its 2nd Annual Watercolor Competitive to be held September 14 through October 9. The Pacific Grove Kiwanis Club is sponsor of the event. Awards of $100, $50, and $25 will be presented.

The competition is open to any resident of Monterey County. Any aqueous medium will be eligible. The paintings must be original unsupervised work done within one year of the exhibition and not previously hung in a juried show. A $2 entry fee is required for which the artist may submit two paintings.

N. Eric Oback, associate professor of art at San Jose State College, a nationally ranked watercolorist, will jury the event and award the prizes. The entry deadline is September 7.

Through August 31, collages and sculpture by Gwen Stone will be exhibited at the American Federation of Arts Gallery on Lincoln south of Ocean.

Born in New York, Gwen Stone now lives and works on a houseboat in San Rafael with her husband, Karl Barron, author and actor. Miss Stone studied at the College of Marin, the San Francisco Art Institute and with Walt Kuhlman. She is a consistent award winner. Her work has been included in major competitive and invitational exhibitions. She has had several one-man shows. The next one will be at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco in December. The work shown in the Carmel exhibition includes collages combining book linens and acrylics and painted wood sculpture.

Joe Ataide is chairman for the Monterey Jazz Festival competitive art exhibition this year. He is also one of the judges. Others are Alex Nepote, professor of art at San Francisco State College, and Zdenec Rada, winner of last year's AFA competition.

Prizes are: first, $150; second, $75; third, $35; in both painting and scultpure classes. All entries must be original, executed in the past two years and not have been entered in a public competition before. Entry fee will be $2. Forms may be obtained by writing Monterey Jazz Festival, Box JAZZ, Monterey.

Each Saturday from 1-4 p.m., Les Enfants Artistes, a quality showing of progressive art, will be held in the garden of Gallatin's Restaurant on Hartnell Street in Monterey.

50 Years Ago in Carmel

—THIS WEEK—

CITIZENS TAKE STEPS TO INCORPORATE

Preliminary legal formalities have been inaugurated setting in motion the proposal to incorporate "The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea," a city of the sixth class, under the laws of the State of California.

Over 50 resident citizens and property owners have petitioned the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to set a date upon which an election may be held submitting this proposition to the electors.

The time for action has arrived. Carmel has reached the point where it must either go ahead or stand still. To stand still means to go back. There is too much at stake to go back.

We have the people. We have the homes. We have the business concerns. We need street improvements, police and fire protection. These may be obtained for a very small additional tax—a tax that will be more than be compensated for by automatically increased values immediately following incorporation.

It must not be assumed that the city trustees, under the new order, will proceed to make all desired improvements at once. Work will be done gradually and thoroughly and economically. There will be no fancy-salaried official. Much of our tax money—now going to Salinas and remaining there — will come back direct to the town. In fact we shall govern ourselves: have home rule.

(Editorial by William L. Overstreet, Pine Cone editor and publisher.)

SIGNERS OF PETITION

Those who signed the petition to incorporate were A. P. Fraser, J. F. Devendorf, William T. Kibbler, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Overstreet, Perry Newberry, H. L. Warren, F. B. Ackerman, Thomas B. Reardon.

'CHARLIE'S AUNT' PLEASES ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE

"Charlie's Aunt" is not exactly the sort of play the founders of the Forest Theater contemplated should be produced there. Yet, if on occasion it is deemed expedient to present such an offering, it is a pleasure to note we got it clean, wholesome and admirably acted last Saturday night.

This comedy has been played thousands of times but it is doubtful if it ever had a better cast than played it in Carmel . . . and trust Perry Newberry to get a laugh.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

After you have read the Nader book about the unsafe design and construction of automobiles, we have another book capable of making you froth and fume. It is entitled HIGHWAY ROBBERY and it was written by Sam Crowther, a reporter for the New York Journal American. This book tells how you can get cheated, fooled, robbed, when you buy or operate a car. It gives you the real information on car rackets in both new and used car selling. It tells you about insurance gimmicks and how to avoid them, about tires and how you can be in jeopardy after putting them on your car, and about the ways you can be cheated when you rent a car. This book states that American motorists are swindled out of more than seven billion dollars every year. This brings us to the subject of walking . . .

The next book is for the person who loves animals, or loves children who love animals. It is called HOME BOOK OF ANIMAL CARE and it was written by Esther Guthrie who was for many years science supervisor in the Sacramento schools. If you have a poodle or a Persian, we have books on the subject. The time when you need Home Book of Animal Care is when you adopt a salamander, a frog, a spider or a scorpion, or any other of the myriad forms of life deemed pet-ful by some persons. This book will tell you not only where to healthfully keep these creatures, but how to grow or prepare their chosen food. There are no illustrations in the book except in the last section which is devoted to showing the various types of housing needed by these strange pets. Here are plain diagrams, showing the shape and construction of the pens and cages, some with sizes indicated. Anyone want to build a habitat for breeding flies and blowflies?

The small Talisman Press in Georgetown, California, has done a very nice piece of work in publishing Rodman Paul's book THE CALIFORNIA GOLD DISCOVERY. Much of the material in the book is reprinted exactly from letters and diaries of persons who were there at the time of the gold discovery. Punctuation and spelling are accurately copied from the original. This gives the material an aura of authenticity which is comforting. This is a most interesting and attractive book.

Deborah Rutledge has a book entitled NATURAL BEAUTY SECRETS, which has the long subtitle of BEING A PRIMER FOR THE ENLIGHTENMENT OF THE FAIR SEX, CONSISTING OF HISTORIC RECEIPTS FOR THE ENHANCEMENT OF THEIR NATURAL BEAUTY, PREPARED AND USED IN THE SANCTUARY OF THEIR HOMES. This book is really a treasure because it is filled with advice and simple ideas to improve the female hair and skin at almost no cost. It seems that with retirement many women allow themselves to relax and take little care of their complexions, perhaps partly because of a why-bother attitude and partly because of reduced finances. This book is the answer. Low cost beauty from materials generally found in the kitchen? Far fetched? Not at all . . . read and see.

The first volume of the MEMOIRS OF KONRAD ADENAUER covers the years 1945 to 1953. These were the post-war years and were probably the most interesting years of his life. The writing has an immediate quality which makes it impressive. It is to be hoped that additional volumes will be published. The book is illustrated with photographs, the portrait on the the book jacket being bad enough to be a basis for a libel suit. He looks like Sitting Bull. Skipping the jacket, this book is a must for anyone interested in modern history.

Of interest to many readers will be THE SWISS BANKS by Fehrenbach. The book is full of anecdotes and incidents which bear out the Swiss saying that "money has no smell." Except, perhaps, the sweet smell of success.

D'Aglianos Bring An International Background To Their Restaurant

It is more than a happy accident that the new Rafaello restaurant presents an harmonious blend of tasteful decor, superb service and a mouth-watering menu which lives up to the descriptive translations of the Italian cuisine and choice of wines offered by Remo D'Agliano in the new Mission Street location. The family, including Mama Amelia D'Agliano who supervises the kitchen with a deft touch, has long been accustomed to pleasing discriminating people with all that makes dining a delight.

Those who frequented the Carmel River Inn restaurant when Remo's father, the late Rafaello D'Agliano, was a partner there, or who enjoyed dining at Rafaello's at Club XIX in Del Monte Lodge, may be familiar with the family's background. To many, however, it will come as a surprise to learn that the enterprising members are equally at home in Paris and Scotland as they were in Viareggio on the Gulf of Genoa in their native Italy.

At the end of World War II, Rafaello closed the establishment he owned in his homeland and took his wife and son to Paris at the urging of an uncle who lived in the French capital. There, again, Rafaello did what he knew best, assisted as always by Amelia. Their Parisian cafe drew an increasing number of sophisticated travelers, among whom were Peter Kerr, 12th Marquis of Lothian, and Lady Lothian. After numerous pleas, Lord Lothian, in 1949, persuaded Rafaello to become his private chef at the family estate near Jedburgh, Roxburghshire, in southeast Scotland. The transplanted Viareggians presided over Lord and Lady Lothian's kitchen and dining room for eight years and, with their son, Remo, made the titled couple the envy of many an epicure.

Remo, who had graduated from l'Ecole Hoteliere de Paris, was employed at The Savoy in London when he joined his mother and father to act "temporarily" as head butler of the Lothian household. The arrangement proved such a mutually felicitous one that Remo worked for the family for almost ten years. During that time, however, he returned to Paris to marry Danielle (Dany, as he affectionately calls her), the girl he met while attending school. Their wedding took place in 1959 and their daughter, Sabrina, now three, was born in Scotland.

With relatives in California, it was only natural that Rafaello and Amelia chose our area when they came to the United States, where their son soon joined them, to pursue—fortuitously for Peninsulans—their chosen line of work. Although saddened by the loss of Rafaello, who died shortly after opening Club XIX last year, Remo and his mother, continue to build on the family's tradition of dedicated service and fine cuisine.

RADIO PROGRAM

The second of two programs entitled "Challenge To Youth: How Do You Judge?" will be heard Sunday over station KDON at 8:45 a.m. on the Christian Science "The Bible Speaks To You" radio series. The spiritual insight and deep understanding needed to really judge what to read, what movie to see, or how to act on a date will be discussed.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Soul" is the subject of the Bible Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The Golden text is from Deuteronomy—"The Lord your God proveth you, to know whether ye love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul."

Readings from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will include this explanation: "The Divine Being must be reflected by man,—else man is not the image and likeness of the patient, tender, and true, the One 'altogether lovely;' but to understand God is the work of eternity, and demands absolute consecration of thought, energy, and desire."

Documented in an inspiring new book
One hundred years of healing through prayer

This book presents an impressive record of authenticated cases of outstanding physical healings and spiritual regeneration through Christian prayer. It is a timely response to today's renewed interest in spiritual healing.
The reader will find many instances where the individuals who experienced the healings explain the spiritual awakening which brought about those healings. This book commemorates the Centennial of the discovery of Christian Science in 1866 by Mary Baker Eddy. It is offered in a spirit of sharing the hope and joy of ordinary lives deeply touched by the Christ.

On August 17 at 3 p.m., a youth singing group will present "Sing Out Monterey," a program arranged by Mrs. Milton Shutes.

Because of limited seating capacity, no one will be admitted after 3 p.m.

Tours

A shopping trip to San Francisco is scheduled for September 13—$5.00. On August 26, a trip to Golden Gate Park to view the San Francisco Fair and Flower Show—$5.00.

FOREST HILL MANOR
Pacific Grove

In the bulletin for the manor we found this bit of humor—JIG SAW PUZZLERS— the little box containing "lost pieces" started with ten pieces. Now it contains 50!

If your picture is not perfect, I hope you will check with the little "lost" box. If the piece is found, and if the puzzle picture box is not marked OK, please check with me so I can OK it—Estelle Carter, director of the "Piece Corps."

CARMEL VALLEY MANOR
Carmel Valley

A concert by Adolph Baller, piano, and Gabor Rejto, cello, in the meetinghouse at the manor is scheduled for August 20.

This concert is a gift from Burl Bacher a resident of the manor. Editor Edith Truesdell of Carmel Valley Echoes, a monthly bulletin, reports the TANKA contest is progressing and interest is evidenced among members of the Canterbury Woods Community Residence in Pacific Grove.

HACIENDA CARMEL
Carmel Valley

Residents of Hacienda Carmel gathered in Casa Fiesta on August 1 to celebrate the fourth anniversary of the opening of this community. For the first time nearly all units were represented, since most of the 300 units are now owner-occupied.

Refreshments were enjoyed by all present. The main buffet was provided by general manager L. H. Miller and his staff but there were also many tempting hors d'oeuvres contributed by residents.

The evening was topped with dancing to the music of Neil Armstrong's Combo. Mrs. Harold Sutcliffe, chairman, and Mrs. William Rich, vice-chairman, of the Anniversary Party Committee, were aided by many others in making the event an outstanding success. Mrs. Paul Heath, activities chairman and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Amen, vice-chairmen, were also actively identified with the party evening, Hal Wright, publicity chairman, for the activities committee, reports.

CANTERBURY WOODS
Pacific Grove

Last Wednesday evening, Dr. Ferdinand Haasis, educational chairman at Canterbury Woods, gave one of his most interesting talks on his favorite subject, botany, showing the many different facets it covers.

Mary Fitch Greenwood, well known local artist who is now living at Canterbury Woods, took part in a TV program last week in which she described the effects painting has on people—from little children right up to the Golden Years. This was all done on tape. This week she will be able to enjoy the program, too, when it is shown on Assignment Four, a popular program on KRON TV.

Mrs. Greenwood will be the honored guest at a party following the showing of the program.

PINPOINT PROFILE

When studying geography in the early days, schoolchildren took delight in asking "Are you going to China to Peek In (Peking)?" Today we are writing about two people who really did go to Peking.

On the passenger list of the S. S. Wilhemena sailing out of San Francisco for the Orient in 1910 were Miss Mary Stambaugh and Harold Robinson, two English teachers going to their first appointments. Since they were both assigned to the same mission school they became very well acquainted. Three years later Mr. Robinson returned to the United States, entered Union Seminary in New York, graduated in 1916 also took special courses at Columbia University.

Following graduation from the seminary, Mr. Robinson was ordained as a Congregational minister, married Miss Stambaugh and sailed to China—all in the course of four months.

The first year they lived in Peking and studied Chinese. The next year they were sent to a mission school at Pao-Ting-Fu and here they stayed for six years. Two sons, Harold Jr. and James, were born to them during this time. (Later these boys became physicians and are now practicing internists in the United States.)

When the second son, James, was to be born, Mrs. Robertson kept in close touch with her doctor. Since the Presbyterian Hospital was on the other side of town, her doctor suggested she stay on a particular day at the hospital but the Robinsons were entertaining friends at their home and Mrs. Robinson said "I will see you tomorrow, I want to stay at home tonight with my friends."

Well! the inevitable happened! A rickshaw had to be called in the middle of the night in order to get Mrs. Robinson to the hospital on time. She remembers the rickshaw man calling out "Make way for the lady—she is going to have a baby," as they rushed through the streets of the city.

Many exciting experiences make up the life story of Dr. and Mrs. Robinson. They told about one night being awakened by what they thought was popping firecrackers—but instead, as it turned out, the war lords were feuding and a battle was being fought just outside the compound. Next day the children of the mission amused themselves by going around the yard looking for bullets which had come over the wall.

In 1927, the Nationalists were fighting the party then in power, trying to over throw it. Dr. Williams, well known minister and vice president of Nanking University was killed. It was a very serious time for all concerned. Mr. Robinson took his wife and children to Tientsin because there was really no safe place for them to live. Times got worse. The family finally had to move to Korea during those hectic days. In the fall of the year the Nationalists had gained control. At this period of transition the U. S. Government advised the missionaries to move nearer to Peking and not to go back to the interior where much of the fighting was still in progress.

The Japanese overran North China in 1937 and took command. It was thought too dangerous for women and children to be living there. Mrs. Robinson returned to the United States with her daughter, Elizabeth; Mr. Robinson and James stayed on; the older son, Harold Jr., was attending college in the States by this time.

Then, in 1941, Japan's war machine attacked Pearl Harbor. In 1942, Dr. Robinson left California for the East Coast where he boarded a troop ship with 7,000 GIs. They sailed to Rio de Janeiro around South Africa to Durban, where they left half of the troops at the Suez Canal because of the fighting in North Africa. He then continued on to Ceylon where he left the boat and flew over "the Hump" to West China. Here he was established as a teacher at the University of Yen Ching, later going on to another mission school at Sian, the old capital of China.

Dr. Robinson served as a civilian chaplain for the 14th Air Force from 1944 to 1945 at Sian. In the interim, 1943-44, Mrs. Robinson was acting as house mother for a girls' college in Cambridge, Massachusetts, while her daughter, was attending Wellesley College. The year 1946 proved interesting. Home again in the U. S., Dr. Robinson performed the wedding ceremonies for all three of their children—Harold Jr., James and Elizabeth.

In 1947-48, Dr. and Mrs. Robinson were again drawn back to China. This was the year the Communists took over. They wanted the school to continue and allowed the missionaries to stay where they were. But things were not the same. The Communists certainly were not in sympathy with the missions as such. Many of the Chinese ministers were forced to carry banners in Communist parades reading "Down with the Imperialist Americans."

About this time Dr. Robinson's church advisors suggested that he come home and he was given a pastorate in the U. S. He and his wife returned. Their work in China was finished.

The doctor and his wife, Mary (Malia, in Chinese), now live very happily at Carmel Valley Manor. As a hobby Dr. Robinson is painting landscapes and seascapes. He points with pride to a beautiful painting of his hanging on his living room wall—with a blue ribbon attached for second prize taken at an exhibit last year in Carmel.

He is moderator of the current events discussion group at Carmel Valley Manor. "We really have some lively times here," he said.

Mrs. Robinson is not just sitting by watching all this. She's busy, too. She spends several days a week teaching retarded children at Logan Hall in Carmel Valley. "Very rewarding work," is her comment.

One more story about Mrs. Robinson. On her last voyage home she landed in Vancouver, B. C. It was an extremely rough trip. As the ship lurched she was thrown from a settee into the ship's side and suffered a broken wrist, a broken arm and a broken rib. Since there was no doctor aboard, the only medical attention she received was from the ship's purser who had once taken a first aid course. It was he put on her splints!

Thailand Or Carmel, Teen-Agers Are Alike

Two girls, one in Carmel, and one in Thailand, by means of letters have initiated an international friendship. They also are learning about the differences between the societies in which they live, also the similarities, and they have the bond of similar interests of teen-agers, no matter where they live.

The two correspondents are Penny Smith of Carmel and Piengcham Sailim of Phuket, Thailand. Sixteen-year-old Piengcham is pictured right. Penny is 16 years old, too, a student at Santa Catalina School for girls and an active member of the Pebble Beach Pony Club. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. Robert Smith.

Piengcham describes her town and family as follows in her second letter to Penny.

"I have lived in Phuket all my life. Phuket is an island in southern Thailand. It is a small province and the biggest island in Thailand. Phuket is a lovely and charming place like Carmel. There are many beaches. It has many hills around it and in the province.

"These things attract many tourists. I think Phuket is like Carmel, but it is smaller than Carmel.

"About myself. I have one elder brother, four younger brothers, one eldest sister and one younger sister. I am the third child, I love to play, sing, read, etc. I attend government school. First, since I was seven years old, I attended elementary school for three years; two years in a private school; four years in a government school called Satri Phuket. If I can pass in exam in next year, I can learn in the college, but I think that I can't pass or probably haven't a chance because my father hasn't money enough.

"In every school in Thailand, pupil or student have to wear certain clothing called uniforms, all of the year. In Thailand, the average person attends school for 12 years."

Piengcham, then explains that Thai children attend kindergarten when they are 3-5 years old. At age seven, they enter Prathom 1-4, then progress through Prathom 5, 6, 7 before entering Matthayom Suksa 1-3 in the eighth grade and remaining there through the tenth grade, then attend Matthayom Suksa 4-5 in the 11th and 12th grade by which time they are 18 years old. She then explains that she "learned" grades six and seven in one year so she can finish her schooling when she is 17 years old.

"I was born on August 1, 1949," she continues, "my father and my elder brother are blacksmiths. My mother is a housewife and takes care of the house and children. My elder sister is married and has one son. My younger brothers and sister study in school. We are not a rich family, but we are not poor.

"In Thailand we have many dances, Thai dances, Ram-wong, Talung Tambo, etc. I have given you a picture of Thai classical dance of the New Year on a postcard.

"If this letter has many mistakes, please don't mind. I think it has many and many mistakes that I don't know.

"Love
"Piengcham.

"P.S. What is your nickname? Mine is Kee."

Writers Who Have Lived in Carmel

BY HERBERT HERON

JAMES HOPPER

Of Irish-French parentage, James Hopper was born on July 23, 1876, in Paris, France. He came to America when he was 11 years old. In 1898, he received his Ph.B. from the University of California, following which he studied law there, and was admitted to the bar in 1900.

James Hopper was in Carmel, then a tiny village, off and on from 1898 to 1901. He was a star quarterback on the California football team, was captain for his final season, and a graduate coach in 1901, later coach of the University of Nevada. He was also instructor in French at U. C.

In September, 1901, he married Mattie E. Leonard. They had four children: Elizabeth, Maryan, James, and Helene. The last we all know as Jane Vial, the social editor of the Pine Cone.

James Hopper served in the educational department in the Philippine Islands in 1902-03; he was on the staff of McClure's Magazine, one of the very live periodicals of its day, after his return from the Philippines.

He was in San Francisco during the earthquake and fire in 1906, and, as a newspaperman, wrote much on that tragic subject.

Hopper was a war correspondent for Collier's Weekly in France from 1914 to the end of World War I. There is a legend that he fired the last shot through a slight misunderstanding.

Returning to Carmel he purchased the former Sterling home in the Eighty Acres. The house burned down in 1924 while he was in New York, where he frequently went in pursuit of his career. He was president of the Authors' Guild of the Authors' League of America (1928-31).

As a member of the Western Drama Society, James Hopper played a part in "Montezuma" in the Forest Theater in 1914. In collaboration with Grace Wickham, he wrote "Confounding the Witch," which was produced there in 1921.

His wife, Mattie, who was the moving force in obtaining the city park, Devendorf Plaza, died in 1935. Three years later he married Elayne Lavrans, like him a lover of fine music. She is a musician and composer.

James Hopper died in Carmel on August 28, 1956.

He was a strong and fearless swimmer. Disregarding the cold waters of Carmel Bay and the dangerous undertow, almost every day he would go far out beyond the breakers in joyous abandon. George Sterling, one of his many great friends, dedicated his splendid poem "Beyond the Breakers" to Hopper.

Speaking of friendship, at one time when the whole Jeffers family was very ill, Jimmie went down unobtrusively and cut up a huge pile of wood for their fireplace, there being no gas or electricity in Tor House in those days.

James Hopper was a writer of subtlety and charm, as all know who have read "The Trimming of Goosie" or the stories in "What Happened in the Night;" but he also showed a very strong side in his tales of war and sport.

Besides nearly 400 short stories published in leading magazines, he was author of the following books: Caybigan, 1906; 9009 (in collaboration with Frederick R. Bechdolt), 1908; The Trimming of Goosie, 1910; The Freshman, 1912; What Happened in the Night, 1913; Coming Back With the Spitball, 1914; Medals of Honor, 1929.

THE TWAIN MEET, LOOK AND ADMIRE

East and West can blend in perfect harmony. On the Monterey Peninsula within three weeks there have been three events of Oriental background which become more popular each year. First was the Salmon Dinner prepared by Japanese members of El Estero Presbyterian Church. It was simply super. Next came the Buddhist Obon Festival. The most spectacular was the Feast of Lanterns.

To narrow down these festivities, let's first take the Salmon Dinner. Naturally, the salmon angle predominates because Monterey's King salmon has not yet disappeared like the sardines. Japanese members of El Estero Church work faithfully to increase their church fund and with great success. The Obon Festival is held at the Monterey County Fairgrounds where spectators feast eyes on bonsai, flower and other artistic arrangements, also watch Judo expertise. Obon dancers in beautiful kimonos perform exquisitely. The cuisine features such delicacaies as shrimp tempura, chicken teriyaki and fresh fruits. Proceeds go to the local Buddhist Church.

The Feast of Lanterns, patterned after an ancient Chinese legend, keeps the memory alive of a Chinese mandarin's daughter who drowned herself when forbidden to marry a peasant and lanterns were lighted to guide her spirit home. Pacific Grove has adapted this story to fit its annual lantern lit celebration.

MENU NO. ONE
(Japanese Salmon Dinner)
This is a Japanese style Salmon Dinner: with Monterey accent.
POACHED SALMON
WITH EGG SAUCE
(Serves 12)

Place a 6-lb. piece of fresh silver king Monterey Bay salmon in a pie pan. Tie pan in piece of doubled cheese cloth and lower into deep kettle of just boiling water to which salt, celery stalks and a bay leaf have been added. Simmer, covered, for about 25 minutes or until fish flakes with the light touch of a fork. Lift fish out carefully, remove cheesecloth and pour egg sauce over all. Serve very hot. Decorate with parsley or watercress. Egg Sauce: Four tbsps., each, butter and flour; 4 cups milk; 1 tsp. salt; ½ tsp. paprika; 4 hard cooked eggs, sliced. Melt butter and remove from heat. Add flour gradually and stir until smooth. Then add milk, bit by bit, until a lovely sauce is formed. Return to low heat. Cook until thickened lightly. Add seasonings to taste, then sliced eggs. Serve hot over salmon. If time and initiative are lacking use condensed cream soups instead of homemade cream sauce. Celery, mushroom, chicken, and asparagus condensed soups make a sure fire base for sauces. There is also a cheddar cheese soup that doesn't fail.

"Serve-withs" are boiled new potatoes, fresh green peas, a green Carmel Valley salad, fresh fruit and tea.

MENU NO. TWO
(Obon Festival Fare)
Shrimp Tempura
Chicken Teriyaki Fluffy Rice
Fresh Fruit Elegante
Tea
SHRIMP TEMPURA
(Serves 12)

Thirty-six fresh or frozen prawns or large shrimp; 1 eggplant in strips; cauliflower buds; fresh spinach leaves; onion rings; asparagus tips; grated white radish; 4 lobster tails, in chunks; scallops or claims; tempura batter and tempura sauce; cooked white rice; lemon wedges; ground ginger.

Arrange the vegetables and cleaned, peeled shrimp and other seafood on large platter. Put electric skillet in center of table, fill with vegetable oil to 1½ inches in depth, and set control at 400 F. Dip ingredients individually into tempura batter. Fry quickly until light brown and crisp. Spinach only needs a second. Drain on absorbent paper. Dip piping hot pieces into sauce with chopsticks.

Tempura Batter: Two egg yolks; 1 tsp. salt; 1½ cups sifted flour; 1½ cups water or skim milk.

Beat egg yolk and liquid with fork or chopsticks in a bowl until mixed. Add flour, and salt, stirring only until blended.

Tempura Sauce: One half cup Japanese Kikkoman soy sauce; 2 tbsps. dry white wine; 1 tsp. ground ginger; 1 cup water; 2 tsps. sugar; grated white radish; green onions, sliced thin, vinegar to taste. Grated daikon (long white Japanese radishes) or our horseradish, together with some thinly sliced green onions, add flavor and color to this good sauce. Mix the soy sauce, wine, water, sugar and vinegar. Sprinkle radishes and onion into mixture and serve this exciting sauce in individual dipping bowls.

CHICKEN TERIYAKI

Six lbs. chicken; 10 green onions; 2 cups soy sauce; 6 tbsps. dry white wine; sugar to taste; juice of 1 lemon; a good pinch of powdered ginger; 1 clove garlic, mashed; 1 grated white radish or 3 minced red radishes; a dash of Tabasco.

Cut chicken into ½ inch squares. Combine ingredients, excepting onions, to make a sauce. Cook this slowly until it becomes slightly syrupy and has decreased to 2/3 of original amount. Provide bamboo skewers and alternate meat with onion. Cook quickly on charcoal hibachi. Put sauce into individual bowls so each can dip his own. Provide chopsticks. They add to the fun.

Steaming rice and fragrant tea are a must along with this delightful Occidental dessert.

MENU NO. THREE
Chinese Chow
Chinese Almond Chicken with Rice
Fruit Tea
CHINESE ALMOND CHICKEN
(Serves 12)

One cup blanched almonds; 1 tsp. salt; 2 cloves garlic, mashed; 4 tbsps., each, liquid from bamboo and chestnut cans; 6 tbsps. salad oil; 1 cup water chestnuts, sliced; 4 cups diced cooked or canned chicken; 2 cups cubed bamboo shoots; 1 cup sliced mushrooms; 2 cups celery, thinly sliced; sugar to taste; cornstarch and water to make a smooth paste; 1 cup sliced green onions; plenty of cooked hot white rice.

Brown almonds in oil. Drain and set aside. Mash garlic into salt in heavy skillet with tight-fitting lid. Add 2 tbsps. oil, then the chicken. Brown lightly. Add a bit more oil, the bamboo shoots and mushrooms. Brown slightly. Add liquid from bamboo shoots and water chestnuts. Cover skillet and cook over low heat briefly. Add water chestnuts, celery and half of almonds. Heat thoroughly. Celery and chestnuts must remain crisp. Make a sauce by shaking cornstarch, sugar, water and soy suace in a covered jar. Stir into the hot mixture. Simmer until smoothly thickened. Serve over hot flaky rice and add crisp fried Chinese noodles (canned if desired). Sprinkle rest of almonds and green onions over top of each serving from separate lacquer or rice bowls. Pass extra soy sauce.

This is a bountiful, beautiful repast easily prepared.

FRESH FRUIT ELEGANTE

¼ cup brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups orange juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 tablespoons lemon juice
Dash nutmeg
6 whole cloves
1 stick cinnamon (3 inches)
3 cups sliced fresh nectarines
2 cups halved pitted Bing cherries
2 cups melon balls
½ pint dairy sour cream (optional)

Combine sugar and cornstarch in small saucepan. Gradually blend in orange juice until smooth. Add lemon rind and juice, nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Cool. Pour over nectarines, cherries and melon balls. Chill 2 to 3 hours. Serve plain or topped with sour cream. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

ADMIRAL SPRUANCE AT DEDICATION

Admiral Raymond A. Spruance (USN Ret.) of Pebble Beach attended dedication of a niche at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School honoring the memory of the late Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz on August 4.

Commander of a fleet directed by Admiral Nimitz during World War II, Admiral Spruance was credited by Admiral Nimitz with the lion's share of credit in the Battle of Midway, turning point of War II in the Pacific.

DONATIONS TO BRAILLE TRANSCRIBERS

A donation of $200 was recently presented by Mrs. Edwin Trinker of the Community Center Auxiliary of Monterey to the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Braille Transcribers, whose director is Mrs. Edythe Dallas of Carmel. At the presentation, Catherine Cathcart, a blind student at Monterey High School, demonstrated the use of a brailler. The generous sum given by the auxiliary will provide for the purchase of two new braillers and other needed supplies.

Boy In Viet Nam 'Adopted' By Dyers

The family of Peter Dyer, chairman of the Sunset Commission, has long subscribed to Foster Parents' Plan and finds it a rewarding experience. Through an exchange of correspondence, according to Mrs. Dyer and other "adoptive" parents, a warm personal relationship develops. The child wants to know all about the foster parent, his family, community and country. In turn, he tries to describe his own family and way of life and the communication established is an enduring one. For the Dyers' children, Stephen, Peter, Jane and John, it has and continues to be an enriching experience.

In place of the girl in Hong Kong who no longer needs PLAN aid, the Dyers have financially "adopted" Nguyen Duc Thong, an 11-year-old Vietnamese boy whose family was part of the vast refugee movement that swept south in 1954 to escape Communism. Thong's family—which includes his mother, his war-invalided father, two sisters and two brothers—has barely 59 cents a day to live on. Assistance for their daily needs, medical care, the chance for the children's education and hope for a better life are assured through the contributions of such people as the Dyers and supplies stocked by PLAN in the foreign country.

Thousands of children, equally deserving, await generous foster parents or groups to provide them with the benefits they so desperately need—$15 a month will support a child. For information, write to Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., a non-profit, government-approved organization, at 352 Park Avenue South, New York, N. Y., 10010.

BRIG. GEN. JOSEPH W. STILWELL

With the Stilwell family, Carmel awaited news of the fate of a C-47 aircraft carrying Brigadier General Joseph W. Stilwell, 54, and two companions which vanished on a flight over the Pacific Ocean July 24. No trace was found of the missing plane which was the object of a week-long sea and air search covering 129,000 square miles.

The distinguished military officer, chief of the U. S. Army's Green Berets, was copilot of the aircraft destined for use in Thailand. In San Francisco for speaking engagements, he had intended to fly as far as Honolulu to increase his instrument rating as a flier-navigator. With General Stilwell, commander of the Army's Special Forces at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, were his friend, Hal Grimes, of Pacific Palisades, pilot, and Harold Fossum, of Montclair, co-pilot.

Loved and respected by the men with whom he served, General Stilwell was equally admired by civilians who knew him and by many who knew only of his valor and his views on international problems.

The general is the son of Mrs. Joseph W. Stilwell of Carmel Point and the late General "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell, famed commander of the China-Burma-India theater of World War II. His wife, Myra, had accompanied him to San Francisco to see their son, Captain Joseph W. Stilwell III, who was leaving for Viet Nam.

Dr. J. F. Williams

Dr. Jesse Feiring Williams, nationally eminent in the field of health and physical education, noted educator and author, died in a local hospital Friday after a brief illness.

The Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula exists today largely because of his dedication and leadership. From 1952 to 1961, Dr. Williams was a member of the hospital board of trustees, serving as president the last seven of those years.

A resident of Carmel for the past 22 years, he was born in Kenton, Ohio, February 12, 1886. Dr. Williams graduated from Oberlin College, Ohio, in 1909, received another degree from Chatauqua School of Physical Education and took his M.D. degree at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. An associate professor of physical education at Teachers College, Columbia University, from 1919 to 1923, he served as a full professor for the ensuing 18 years, retiring in 1941 as emeritus professor.

Visiting Carnegie professor accredited to universities of Latin America in 1935-36, he served as the U. S. delegate to the International Congress of Sports Medicine at Berlin in 1936. For 31 years Dr. Williams administered the health and physical education areas of educational surveys at 25 colleges and schools. As a major in the U. S. Army Medical Corps during World War I, he was in charge of Red Cross recreation activities for hospitals in the Atlantic division.

He was a former president of the Society of Directors of Physical Education in Colleges, also the American Physical Education Association, which awarded him the prized Gulick Medal in 1939. Dr. Williams was a Fellow in the American Public Health Association and held honorary Sc.D. degrees from Rollins and Oberlin colleges.

The author or co-author of 44 textbooks, he also had published more than 80 articles dealing with his sphere of interests. A few months ago, he donated an invaluable library, built throughout his lifetime, to San Francisco State College.

After Dr. Williams and his wife, Gertrude, became local residents, he was appointed chairman of the Monterey County Committee on School District Organization, also served as a member of the Carmel Planning Commission. His counsel was often sought and graciously given in areas of education, public health and civic matters.

In addition to his wife, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. William A. Atchley of Belvedere and Mrs. Thomas H. Nicholl of Leawood, Kansas; ten grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, with Dr. George Hunter Hall of Carmel Presbyterian Church officiating. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make memorial contributions in honor of Dr. Williams may do so to the charities of their choice.

Grace Mora

Services have been held at the Paul Funeral Chapel for Mrs. Grace Needham Mora, 85, who died at her Pebble Beach home Saturday night after a period of failing health. A local resident since 1920, Mrs. Mora was born in San Jose on August 5, 1881. She was the wife of the late Jo Mora, noted sculptor, illustrator, painter and author, who died in 1947.

Jo Mora's intense fascination with the Spanish heritage of early California is preserved in such sculpture as the Serra statue in Carmel Woods and the sarcophagus of Padre Junipero Serra at Carmel Mission Basilica. Smaller sculptures, his illustrated books and his whimsical maps of the area are collectors' items.

Mrs. Mora is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Grace Patricia (Patti) Mora Anderson, a son, Jose (Jo) Needham Mora, and a granddaughter, Mora Jo Anderson, all of Pebble Beach.

Friends wishing to make contributions in memory of Mrs. Mora may do so to the Carmel Foundation, Box 3424, Carmel.

Van Yates Victor In Santa Cruz Regatta

Van Yates of Pebble Beach skippered his Mercury sloop to a first place victory in the Santa Cruz Invitational Regatta held last weekend. Another Stillwater Yacht Club member, Steve Gould, placed second in the event which drew a large number of entries to compete under fair skies with light to moderate winds off Santa Cruz.

Steve Gould, one of Stillwater's representatives in the Mercury Nationals Championship held last week at Sausalito, placed 11th in the Monday-Friday competition. Less fortunate were Bob Crittenden, Topper Gould and Evan Wyeth, also representing the club. Though qualified to compete, Van Yates was unable to enter. For the first time in the history of the national championship there were two first-place winners, Pat Bradley of Fresno and Dick Thompson of Sausalito, both of whom often enter Stillwater invitational regattas.

BELL APPROVED FOR MEMORIAL ARCH

The four members present at yesterday's meeting of the Carmel Arts Commission unanimously voted to co-sponsor an actors workshop in the Forest Theater-in-the-Ground this Fall with the Carmel Unified School District adult school.

Commissioner Barbara Norberg reported that the American Legion has approved the hanging of a bell in the World War I memorial arch at Ocean and San Carlos designed by the late famed architect, Charles Sumner Greene. The bell will be donated by Harry Downie, restorer of Carmel Mission Basilica.

Division Of Highways Personnel Changes

A major shift in the top engineering staff of the Division of Highways district office in San Luis Obispo, was announced recently by R. J. Datel, district engineer, with the exchange of assignments of Ralph A. Lejonhud, assistant district engineer—planning and George Wofford, assistant district engineer—operations. The new assignments were effective July 5.

Wofford will take over from Lejonhud the responsibility for the planning and design of all State highway projects in Monterey, San Benito, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara counties and Lejonhud will receive from Wofford the responsibility for all State highway construction and maintenance activity in the same four-county area.

LITTLE LEAGUE ALL-STARS THIRD IN TOURNAMENT

Carmel Little League All-Stars won three to two against Mid-County National All-Stars in a consolation game July 31 after a four to one defeat by Watsonville National on July 29 evening. The win gave Carmel third place honors in the 15-league tournament. Winning pitcher for Carmel was Steve Powers, with Gary Carpenter behind the plate. In Sunday's championship game, Watsonville went on to win the District 39 championship by defeating Santa Cruz five to two in extra innings.

FORMER DRUG ADDICTS TO SPEAK AT CARMEL CHURCH

Two residents of the San Francisco "Synanon Foundation," the privately operated rehabilitation center for drug addicts, will fill the pulpit at Church in the Round Sunday. They will explain the startling new theories in education under which this eight-year old institution has been able to cut to 20 percent the usual relapse rate of 90 per cent among addicts who have been treated in special federal hospitals. A large part of the program will be devoted to answering questions from the audience (leader-provoked discussions inevitably ending up in the fields of philosophy and religion). Like Alcoholics Anonymous, Synanon uses ex-addicts to give the support and understanding needed to "kick the habit and stay clean." Residents enter voluntarily, do their own work, are free to leave at any time.

There are now six centers in the United States, the Santa Monica headquarters in charge of Charles E. Dederick, the founder.

WHAT IS A WEST WALL WORTH

If it is floor to ceiling, wall to wall, a living mural of the sea? And what is a south wall worth if its glare-proof windows frame the unending excitement of the surf on incomparable Pt. Lobos? And what is the value of this 180° view when it is skillfully illumined by concealed floodlights, or enjoyed on moonlight nights when the phosphorescence turns the shoreline into fairyland? And would you think a beach practically in your front yard desirable?

If this kind of setting doesn't interest you, then don't bother to read on. But if Carmel to you MEANS the sea in all its moods as a routine part of your life, and if you like a setting of simple luxury from which to enjoy it, then also please take note of the following:

There are five bedrooms and four baths, but the house is as well suited to a couple with an interest in hobbies and guests as it is to a big family, so carefully was it planned. Three of the bedrooms are exceptionally large, one has a fireplace, one has a separate entrance, one is an ideal studio. The style is a pavilion concept of contemporary California architecture—and this means that all the courts and outdoor living areas are wind protected and sheltered. The living room is spacious, luxurious in decor, and the dining room also takes full advantage of the view. The kitchen—ah, the kitchen! We hope the buyer is a gourmet who doesn't hire the cooking done!

Well, you know how the writer can go on and on about something she really likes, but "space prevents, et cetera". Why don't you just make an appointment to treat yourself to a conducted tour? The price is $150,000 and this is the first time this nearly new home has been offered for sale.

Costs Of Culture

so favored the Sunset Commission studying "a sequence of suggestions" and using a technical advisor where needed.

The $2,000 was allocated instead of $4,000 requested for a feasibility study.

The establishment of the city theater/stage management employment category reduces the budget requests of the Sunset and arts commissions by $700. The Sunset commission had asked for a stage manager ($5,000) and the arts commission for a theatre manager ($900). Any employe in the new category will be responsible to the city administrator and assume management of all uses of Sunset auditorium stage, also uses of the city-owned Forest Theater.

The Sunset Commission maintenance and repair budget was reduced by $5,479: its capital outlay budget requests by $1,500 for carpeting auditorium aisles. With this accomplished, the council then had a generous impulse and replaced in this commission's budget the sum of $1,225 for the purchase of 100 movable stacking chairs.

Somewhat dismayed, the council took no action on the Harrison Memorial Library's requested budget of $79,283.

"I'm numb," said Mayor Grant and asked Frederick Duhring, president of the library board, if he could see "anything that could be reduced."

"Not without detriment to the city," Mr. Duhring replied.

Approved was the civil defense council request for $500 for 1966-67.

The city council will resume budget study Wednesday night at 8:30 p. m.

Civic Center Loan

funds will maintain the $352,552 which the city has in the bank drawing interest at 4.8 percent.

The loan is proposed to be amortized by yearly payments of $50,000 accruing to the hostelry tax revenue allocated to the improvement of city property according to the general plan. Each year, the annual tax interim loan will be reduced by this amount, equal to half the annual hostelry tax revenue for this allocation, until the loan for Phase I of the civic center is fully paid in June, 1971.

Mr. Norberg termed the tax interim loan "borrowing on a fantastic scale." He and Mr. Sefton have asked the California legislature to investigate the legality of this financing procedure. "We're forbidden by the state constitution to commit a future year's revenue," Mr. Norberg reiterated last night.

The tax interim loan bids will be opened by the city clerk on September 1 and presented to the council at its September meeting. Date stipulated for the loan to go into effect is September 15.

A SPECIAL INVITATION

Anyone who knows stories about "old Carmel" is invited to send them to the Pine Cone for a special edition of the paper commemorating the 50th anniversary of the incorporation of the city. Photographs of early days will be welcome, too. Businessmen are invited to prepare special and unusual advertising for this issue.

Fire Prevention Needs

also capable of conducting fire prevention education within the department. Close cooperation was necessary between this fireman and the city building inspector's department both as to existing and planned structures he emphasized, and added that he did not think anyone "external" to the department would be effective.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg objected to the creation of the new title of "chief of fire prevention bureau." The salary range for this position was proposed as $566-756 a month. Mr. Whittlesey stated that a title was essential to the duties of a man authorized to go into establishments and make inspections and recommendations. Maybe "inspector," would be a more desirable title, he suggested. (Monthly pay for this designation would be $505-$674 as opposed to $476-$636 as engineer.)

Councilman William Sefton inquired about the attitude of the men of the department to the fire prevention chief proposal. Mr. Whittlesey replied that the proposed program and procedure would not have been undertaken unless it was believed it had the backing of the department. He added that pre-fire planning relates to the safety of firemen at work.

Fire prevention work is no longer a casual job with the present impacted business district, he added.

Finally the council unanimously adopted the motion of Mr. Blanks to amend the municipal code to include within the structure of the fire department a fire prevention bureau under the direction of the fire chief, and providing for one or more inspectors, either paid or volunteer members of the department, with the rate of compensation for their work to be determined by the city council. Also approved was amending the city's salary classification plan to provide for the inspector job.

Unanimously, again, the council voted to hold in abeyance the appointment of Robert Updike as a paid fire captain until the city code was amended in regard to the proposed structure of the fire department.

Editor's Column

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall on July 24 announced a series of grants from the Land and Water Conservation Fund to be used across the country to develop a variety of trails for bicycling, hiking, and horseback riding, all urgent recreation needs in areas where large numbers of people live.

A Carmelite, Richard Mack, wants the Monterey Peninsula to develop an intercommunity trail system and benefit from the federal allocations. He has already called one meeting and plans others to organize a system of pathways that will extend from Marina to Carmel, perhaps further. He emphasizes that, in addition to providing recreation, a Peninsula intercommunity trail system would cut traffic congestion ten percent and that this fact has been established by a survey. He also recognizes that safe pathways would help local school districts to cut bus transportation costs in some instances, thus save taxpayers' money.

In the Carmel area, pedestrian and bicycle paths are an outstanding need. Middle School is cut off from residential areas by heavily travelled Highway One and no boy or girl can safely walk or ride a bicycle to the school from Carmel, Carmel Point, Hatton Fields, Mission Fields, Carmel Hills, Carmel Woods and South Carmel Hills. This means participation in recreation or after school sports programs on this campus requires transportation by parents or the Carmel Unified School District.

This is just one example of the local need for Mr. Mack's trail system. Peninsula Boy and Girl Scout programs also would benefit immeasurably from it. There are adults who like to walk and bicycle and find that, at present, this can only be accomplished between communities on the Monterey Peninsula along roadways crowded by the inexorable automobile: roadways constructed only for vehicular traffic in accordance with the policy of the equally inexorable California Highway Commission which controls millions of dollars of gas tax funds.

The overall recreation plan for the State of California calls for some 3,000 miles of connecting trails from San Diego to the Oregon border. Already San Mateo County has been allocated $29,886 in federal funds to develop hiking and riding trails in the Belmont and Menlo Park areas. The state will match this sum.

All the Peninsula needs is an intercommunity trail plan in order to apply for similar federal and state aid. This plan is Mr. Mack's first objective. The Pine Cone hopes he gains the support of Peninsula organizations and civic bodies, also every individual who values the right of a girl or a boy on a bike, or afoot, to explore and enjoy the beauty of the Monterey Peninsula. He already has our pledge of assistance. M.L.

INVESTIGATION CONTINUES

Carmel Police are continuing to investigate an early Monday morning burglary of Surf n' Sand Pharmacy, Sixth and Torres, where entry was gained by breaking exterior plaster and using wire cutters to make a hole in the rear wall, which is obscured from sight of the street.

According to the police, $100 in cash was taken from a register, also electric razors and watches valued at $402.60. No narcotics were reported missing.

Who Shot The Car?

The Los Padres National Forest was host to approximately 30,400 deer hunters last weekend for the opening of the coastal deer season.

Only one fire occurred as a result of the hunting activity, this was in the Monterey District and was caused by a burning vehicle. Most people displayed good manners while in the forest, however, 41 notice of violations were issued. These were for open fires, which are not permitted in the Los Padres National Forest; for camping outside a designated campground; and for entering closed areas not open by permit.

There were three lost people, two people received rattlesnake bites, two persons were accidentally shot, not seriously, one red Volkswagen was shot.

FATHER OSBORNE TO OFFER FIRST MASS AT MISSION

The Reverend Robert R. Osborne, S.M., son of Colonel R. E. Osborne of Carmel, will offer his first solemn mass in Carmel Mission Basilica on Saturday at 11 a. m. He will be joined by a number of priests in a concelebrated mass, following which there will be a reception in the Mission patio.

Present for the occasion will be his father and his sister, Mary Osborne, a teacher at Carmel River School, who traveled to Fribourg, Switzerland, to witness Father Osborne's ordination to the priesthood this Spring. The family has another reason for rejoicing — Lieutenant Peter Osborne (USAF) and his wife, now at Travis AFB, became the parents of a son, Ted, on August 1.

Father Osborne will leave soon to begin teaching at Vianney High School in St. Louis, Missouri.
